From the Tareq Hani collection John Hyrcanus I who is the nephew of the famous Judah Maccabee (the hero of the Hanukkah story) came to power as the High Priest of Jerusalem in the year 134 BCE. During his first year in power he was faced with an invasion of Judea and a siege on Jerusalem by the Seleucid King Antiochos VII Sidetes. The siege lasted for over a year. Eventually Hyrcanus agreed on a truce that meant the walls of the city would be torn down, 3,000 talents of silver will be paid to Antiochos, once again Judean recognition of Seleucid control and many other things that impacted the Ancient Judeans. But another thing that was agreed upon in the treaty was that Hyrcanus could strike bronze coins at the Jerusalem Mint but in the name of Antiochos. Hence the creation of the coin above. This coin is also the first known time that a prutah was issued making this the very first prutah in known history.

Metcalf 47. Porteous 14. Schl. II, 4. Almost certainly the finest known example of this well-preserved and extremely rare type of coin, and definitely superior to the only other specimen offered in recent years. The Crusade never had one designated long term leader from the start, it had a council of nobles which guided it; one of the most important leaders was Bohemond of Taranto, 'the eldest son of the legendary Norman Robert Guiscard', one of the leaders of the first crusade and the founder of the long-living Principality of Antiochia. Bohemond's coinage is extremely rare today, and highly sought after by numismatic collectors specialising in the Crusade period and seeking to broaden their collection with exquisite rare coins most of which are in fantastic condition. The coin variations are based on the official bullae which Bohemond used as Prince of Taranto in 1090. From the Tareq Hani collection
