536 AQUILIA SEVERA, 2nd wife of Elagabal, AD 220-222. Denarius 19mm, 2,64g. AR IVLIA AQVILIA SEVERA AVG Draped bust right, hair waved and fastened in plait. Rev. CONCORDIA Concordia, wearing long dress, standing left, sacrificing over altar out of patera in her right hand, holding double cornucopia with her left hand; in field left, star. Julia Aquilia Severa (d. after 222) was the second and fourth wife of Roman emperor Elagabalus. She was the daughter of Quintus Aquilius. The praenomen of "Julia" was given to her after becoming an empress. Severa was a Vestal Virgin and, as such, her marriage to Elagabalus in late 220 was the cause of enormous controversy - traditionally, the punishment for breaking the thirty-year vow of celibacy was death by being buried alive. Elagabalus is believed to have had religious reasons for marrying Severa - she herself was a follower of the eastern sun god El-Gabal, and when marrying herself to Severa, she also conducted a symbolic marriage of her god to Vesta.

VOTA PVBLICA Anubis, wearing long robe and holding sistrum in raised right hand, sitting on the stern of a galley, sailing right. Alföldi 13, Vagi 3429. This is the 5th and best known example of this very rare issue; and the second one on the market. (The first one was sold by Roma Numismatics Limited, May 2013 Auction Los 1638) The Isis festival was a major celebration in Rome in the 3rd and 4th centuries, heralding the arrival of the ship of Isis (navigium Isidis) from Alexandria on 5 March. Besides Isis, other members of the Egyptian pantheon appear: Serapis, Horus, Anubis, Harpocrates, and Nilus. Such coins or tokens with imperial busts were first struck by Diocletian at Rome to mark the arrival of the ship, and the tradition continued through the 4th century. The latest imperial bust to appear is that of Valentinian II. Alföldi proposes that in the Middle Ages the festival associated with the Isis ship (also known as carrus navalis) became the car naval or carnival.

1028 Crusaders. Christian Arabic Dirhams. Dirham AR 21mm, 2,80g, Akka (Acre), 1251. Within a square, 'Allāh wāḥid huwa / al-īmān wāḥid / al-ma'mūdiyya wāḥida' ('God is one, the faith is one, the baptism is one' in Arabic; cf. Ephesians 4:5); in the margin, '[ḍuriba bi 'Akkā sana / alf wa mi'atayn] / aḥad wa khamsīn / [li-tajassud al-masīḥ]' ('Struck in 'Akka in the year 1251 of the incarnation of the Messiah' in Arabic); and two fleurs-de-lys. Rev. Within a square, 'al-ab wa al-ibn / wa al-rūḥ al-qudus / ilāh wāḥid' ('The Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit: One Divinity' in Arabic); in the margin, 'lahū al-majd / [ilā abad / al-abadīn / āmīn āmīn]' ('His is the glory forever and ever, amen, amen' in Arabic) and one fleurs-de-lys. Extremely rare with fleurs-de-lys. The appearance of the fleurs-de-lys on this extremely rare issue is very likely connected to the presence of Louis IX of France in Acre, where he resided in 1250-1251 after his release from Mamluk captivity. Louis was the leader of the Seventh Crusade, during the course of which a large Christian force invaded Egypt in 1249, but he was utterly defeated and captured by the Mamluks in early 1250, who set him and his entourage free after 31 days for a colossal ransom of 200,000 gold bezants.
