AE 25 Bareheaded, draped, and cuirassed bust right, seen from behind / LEG XV, griffin seated left with wings displayed. Unpublished in the standard references. Fine, green patina with earthen deposits. Extremely rare and unpublished. Legio XV played a pivotal role in Lucius Verus' war with Parthia. The legion was first deployed to fight the Parthians in A.D. 115 under Trajan, fighting in Mesopotamia, and returned again in 162 to fight on the Armenian front of the Parthian war. Led by Verus, the unit captured and controlled the Armenian capital of Artaxata. Although the sigil of the Legio XV Apollinaris is unknown, the connection between the griffin and Apollo is clear. The portrait on this coin is very similar to a small series of Lucius Verus struck at Edessa but the obverse legend, although difficult to discern on this specimen, does not match. Crowned facing bust, holding cross-tipped scepter and globus cruciger / Cross on three steps; arms ending in R € X. Rare and historically interesting. In April 1191, a fleet bearing English forces and the fiancée of Richard the Lion-heart, Berengaria of Navarre, encountered rough seas off the coast of Cyprus. The stranded English were treated harshly by the rebel Byzantine prince Isaac Comnenus, ruler of Cyprus, who held a reputation for brutality. Richard, following in his own fleet on his way to assist his cousin Guy of Lusignan at Acre, landed at Limassol in May and in short order defeated and captured Isaac. Richard only remained on Cyprus for a few weeks before selling the island to the Knights Templar and continuing on to the Holy Land. In 1192 the Templars in turn sold Cyprus to Guy, now dispossessed of his fief in Palestine, who founded the Lusignan dynasty there. These rare and enigmatic tetartera, with their Byzantine style portrait and cross with the Latin legend REX, were probably struck in Cyprus for Richard during his brief stopover on that island. They have been found in equal numbers on Cyprus and in Syria-Palestine, indicating that they were struck on Cyprus and then accompanied the English on their continuing crusade

834 These figures, which he calls Sky Observer/Stargezer due to their upward gaze, are referred to as Kilia Type Figurine/Idol in the scientific world. They take this name from the Kilya settlement in Çanakkale, Gallipoli Peninsula, where they were first found. "...For what purpose were they made, how were they used? According to some, the mother goddess figurines of the Neolithic period are thought to be representatives of the Chalcolithic period (approximately 5300 - 3000), and according to others, they are thought to be related to the fertility culture. These bronze idol types, with their arms folded at their sides and looking respectfully at the sky, are very rare artifacts. Weight: 161,5 gr Diameter: 95,8 mm

867 Roman Republican Anonymous. 6th-4th centuries BC. Pb. Aes Formatum . Irregular cast Pb in the shape of an astragalos. The game of knucklebones was played with three or four small animal bones that have a distinctive shape on each of their four sides. Special significance was ascribed to the particular combination of sides showing with each toss. One pursuit was associated with the goddess Aphrodite, where the highest throw (four corresponding sides) was called "Aphrodite." Archaeological evidence suggests that knucklebones were often thrown by the devotees of the Cnidian Aphrodite to determine if they would enjoy the goddess' favor. Weight: 60,9 gr Diameter: 30,1 mm
