1 MYSIA. Cyzicus. Ca. 500-450 BC. EL stater . Facing Gorgoneion, head covered with writhing snakes, tongue protruding, tunny (tuna) fish left below / Quadripartite incuse square. Von Fritze 129, pl. IV, 15. BMFA 1445. Extremely rare and exceptionally well struck from fresh dies. NGC AU★ 5/5 - 5/5, Fine Style. From The Providence Collection. Cyzicus was an important city on the northwestern coast of Anatolia, well positioned to take advantage of trade across and through the Sea of Marmara. Its coinage was in more or less continuous production from about 550 BC to circa AD 630, a nearly 1,200 year span unmatched by any other ancient mint. The tunny (tuna) fish was the symbol of Cyzicus from mid-6th century BC, when the city began striking electrum staters and fractions that circulated so widely the generic term for a stater became a cyzicenus. A menagerie of creatures drawn from Greek mythology appeared on its coins, among them the almost comically ferocious Gorgon seen here. The Gorgons were three sisters whose terrible visages and gaze could turn one to stone. The mythology dates back to Minoan times, where they seem to have originated as sea deities; about 700 BC, Hesiod names the three Gorgons as Stheno, Euryale and Medusa and says they were the offspring of the sea monsters Keto and Phorcys. Of the three, Medusa is shown with writhing snakes instead of hair; the other two are often depicted with grotesque grins, fang-like boar's tusks, and protruding tongues. Medusa was famously slain by the hero Perseus and her head used as a weapon to turn his enemies to stone. Images of Gorgons appear frequently in Greek art as talismans of protection, particularly on the shields of Greek soldiers and as decorations for the breastplate. 2 Greek Mysia. Kyzikos circa 550-450 BC. Sixth Stater or Hekte EL Triton reclining to left, holding wreath in raised left hand, leaning on left elbow; tunny fish to left below / Quadripartite incuse square. Very Fine Von Fritze 126. The hekte coins from Mysia were typically made of electrum, an alloy of gold and silver, which was a characteristic material for coinage in this region during the Archaic and Classical periods. These coins were widely circulated and played a crucial role in trade across the Aegean Sea and beyond, reflecting the wealth and influence of Mysian cities. Kyzikos, one of the most prominent cities in Mysia, produced a vast array of hekte coins, each featuring different designs on the obverse (front) side, while the reverse generally displayed a simple quadripartite incuse square. The obverse designs are particularly varied and include mythological creatures like griffins, lions, and boars, as well as depictions of gods, goddesses, and symbols of trade and prosperity, such as tunny fish, which were abundant in the waters near Kyzikos. One of the most famous and distinctive types of hekte from Kyzikos features a boar on the obverse, often with other elements such as a lion's head or a star, reflecting the city's wealth derived from its natural resources and trade. The reverse typically has a simple geometric pattern, such as an incuse square, which was common in early Greek coinage. Reference: Condition: Very Fine Weight: 2,0 gr. Diameter:10,8 mm

3 Mysia. Cyzicus. c. 460-450 BC. EL Hecte. Obv: Head of young woman facing left, hair covered by sakkos, truncation dotted. Below, tunny fish left. Rx: Quadripartite incuse square. Fritze 106, pl. III, 25. Cf. Roma Num. 3, 31 March 2012, lot 263. Extremely beautiful archaic female head. Good VF. This is a very rare issue whose beauty rivals the contemporary Arethusa heads of the Syracusan series. This head of a young woman with chastely covered hair might have made the contemporary Greeks think of Aphrodite, the goddess of love, since chastity did not contradict allure, but sometimes even enhanced it. Reference: Condition: Very Fine Weight: 2,46 gr. Diameter: 9,8 mm

405 Cimmerian Bosphoros. Pantikapaion circa 310-303 BC. Bronze Æ Head of bearded Satyr to right / Π-A-N, forepart of griffin to left; sturgeon to left below. Very Fine MacDonald 69; SNG BM Black Sea 869-71; SNG Stancomb 541-2; HGC 7, 113. The Griffin, also spelled Gryphon or Gryphon, is a mythical creature with the body of a lion and the head and wings of an eagle. It is a popular creature in various mythologies and folklore, often representing strength, courage, and guardianship. In ancient Greek mythology, Griffins were believed to be the guardians of treasures and sacred places, serving as protectors of the divine. They were seen as majestic and noble creatures, combining the attributes of the king of beasts (the lion) and the king of birds (the eagle). Griffins are also found in other cultures, including Persian, Egyptian, and Mesopotamian mythology. In these traditions, they were associated with royalty, divinity, and protection.
