18 Greek Coins Kings of Lydia. Sardeis. Kroisos 560-546 BC. 1/12 Siglos AR Confronted foreparts of lion right, with extended right foreleg, and bull left / Incuse square. Nearly Very Fine Berk 26-7; Traité I 413; SNG von Aulock 2880. Kroisos, also known as Croesus in Greek mythology and history, was the king of Lydia, an ancient kingdom located in western Anatolia (modern-day Turkey). Kroisos is renowned for his wealth and power, making him a prominent figure in both Greek history and mythology. He ruled Lydia during the 6th century BCE, overseeing a prosperous kingdom known for its advancements in commerce and minting the first standardized coins made of electrum, a natural alloy of gold and silver. One of Kroisos' notable achievements was expanding Lydia's influence and wealth through strategic alliances and trade routes that extended across Asia Minor and into Greece. His wealth became legendary, earning him the reputation of being the richest man of his time. Kroisos' reign is also marked by his interactions with neighboring powers, including the Greek city-states and the rising Persian Empire under Cyrus the Great. His alliance with the Oracle of Delphi, seeking advice on potential conflict with Persia, famously led to a misinterpretation that ultimately resulted in his defeat by Cyrus. Despite his defeat, Kroisos remained a symbol of wealth and prosperity in Greek and later Western traditions. His story serves as a cautionary tale about the unpredictability of fate and the transient nature of material wealth. In summary, Kroisos, or Croesus, was a pivotal figure whose reign symbolized Lydia's prosperity and strategic importance in ancient Anatolia. His legacy endures through historical accounts, myths, and philosophical reflections on the nature of wealth and power in human societies. Weight: 0,7 gr Diameter 7,5 mm

20 Greek Coins. KINGDOM OF LYDIA. Kroisos. Silver 1/16 Stater, circa 561-546 BC. Sardes. Obv: confronted foreparts of lion right and bull left. Rev: incuse square. About Extremely Fine; a fine example of the type. The coinage of Kroisos, also known as Croesus, the wealthy King of Lydia (reigned c. 595-546 BC), is notable for being among the first bimetallic coinages, featuring both gold and silver coins. These coins, introduced around 550, are significant for their innovative standardisation and high purity, setting a precedent for future coinage systems. The silver coins typically featured a lion and a bull, symbolising strength and power. Kroisos' coinage facilitated trade and economic stability in the region, influencing monetary practices across the ancient world and laying the groundwork for the widespread adoption of coinage in Greece and beyond. Light iridescent tone and about extremely fine Ex NAC sale 51, 2009, 184. This comes from a small emission at Cappadocia and portrays Claudius at his triumph at Rome after the victory in Britain. Here is a highly idealized portrait of the emperor and a typically styled Roman quadriga reverse. This coin clearly was not minted until after Claudius received his triumph but the exact dating for the series of didrachms from this mint remains uncertain. All of the didrachms of this series are quite rare and this may have been something of a commemorative series rather than one designed for circulation needs. If this is true one would expect a minting date somewhere between 44 and 48 AD. MSG. Weight:5,9 gr Diameter19,9 mm

RIC 2. Marcus Didius Severus Julianus was born in Mediolanum in AD 133 and grew up in the house of Marcus Aurelius, brought up by his mother, Domitia Lucilla, thanks to whom he was elected to the vigintivirate. Didius Julianus then distinguished himself in Germania against the Chauci and was awarded the consulship in 175. When Pertinax was assassinated, Didius Julianus proposed himself as his successor in a manner that, according to the historian Cassius Dione, was scandalous and infamous. Julian is said to have offered to the praetorians a large sum of money in exchange for the empire. Similarly, however, Sulpicianus, father-in-law of the late Pertinax, behaved in a sort of auction to buy the throne. Didius Julianus prevailed, winning power with 30,000 sesterces paid to each praetorian, but also promising to rehabilitate the memory of Commodus. His first action as emperor was in fact to bring down the head of the praetorian prefect Quintus Aemilius Leto, who had taken part in the conspiracy with Cassius Dion in 192 and was guilty of the murder of Commodus. Didius Julian's power was short-lived, however, because of Septimius Severus, governor of Pannonia Superior, who accused him of murdering Pertinaces and was supported by the people. Faced with the advance of Septimius Severus, Didius Severus was abandoned by the legionaries of the Danube and also by the Praetorians, without whom it was impossible to maintain power in Rome. The Senate thus, in an extraordinary meeting, deposed Julian and condemned him to death. Weight: 2,6 gr Diameter 18,0 mm
