Jupiter in quadriga r., holding sceptre, reins and thunderbolt; on either side, star; in upper field, head of Sol and crescent; below horses, anguipede giant with thunderbolt; in exergue, CN CORNEL L F. Babelon Cornelia 17. Sydenham 542. FFC 616 RBW 1153. Crawford 310/1. Struck on a very broad flan and with a lovely original light silver patina. Extremely rare!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! The anguipede giant trampled under the hooves of Jupiter's horses in this reverse is sometimes interpreted as the monstrous Typhon, who seems to have already been struck by one of Jupiter's thunderbolts. Meanwhile, in the sky above, the head of Sol, a lunar crescent and a star can be seen. These celestial elements seem to refer to the mythological tradition that Gaia, the mother of the giants, attempted to save them by seeking out a magic herb that would make them invulnerable, but Jupiter forbade the sun and moon to shine and the dawn to break until he had harvested all of the herb himself. In this case, the star on this coin must represent Venus, the morning star. This unusual reverse type has sometimes been interpreted as an allegory for the victory of L. Cornelius Scipio-a famous ancestor of the moneyer Cn. Cornelius Sisena-over the Seleucid king Antiochus III at the Battle of Magnesia in 190 BC. In this interpretation, Scipio is represented by Jupiter and the defeated king by the anguipede giant.
