The Tiberina Academy was founded in 1813 following a split from the Hellenic Academy, which had been established in 1809 by archaeologist Antonio Nibby to promote the study of the Greek language. Due to unresolved internal conflicts, the Academy's leader, archaeologist and historian Antonio Coppi, along with twenty-five other members - including Giuseppe Gioachino Belli - decided to leave and create a new institution: the Tiberina Academy. Coppi, its first president, drafted the founding charter, which outlined its mission to promote classical and Italian language studies (with a purist approach), support agricultural development in the Roman countryside, and compile a history of medieval Rome.

S P Q R OPTIMO PRINCIPI / S C, Priest or emperor, veiled, plowing right with team of oxen. Cfr. RIC II 568 (Extremely Rare). A specimen entirely executed through the extensive use of the burin. It is not known whether the base was originally ancient, but its maker (or restorer) produced an example that is stylistically inconsistent with those from the time of Trajan. It should therefore be considered, in all respects, a modern reproduction.

10

395 Study Forgeries. Commodus "Paduan" medallion after Giovanni da Cavino (Bronze, 37.53 mm, 32.17 g). [M COMMODVS ANTONINVS PIVS FELIX AVG BRIT], Laureate, draped and cuirassed half bust right. Rev. [MART PACAT P M TR P XIII IMP VIII COS V P P], Mars standing left, holding olive branch and leaning on spear; cuirass behind. Cf. Gneccchi II, p. 56, n. 45, pl. 81, n. 4. Cf. Cohen 382. This medallion undoubtedly appears to be a cast, but it shows metal encrustations along the edges that resemble chemical fusion residues, as if it had undergone an electrolytic process in running water (such as a river). Moreover, the patina also appears riverine. Nevertheless, we cannot demonstrate its genuineness. Good Fine. Very Rare.

407 Roman silver ring featuring a woman and a crescent (?). Circa 2nd century BC. (inner diam. 1.8 cm). Deformed and crystallized rod, with a surface crack on one side extending toward the bezel.

408 Byzantine Bronze Bread Stamp, with high handle. Circa 4th - 7th centuries (5.4 x 2.7 cm). CEΦAH (retrograde), name in relief set in deep incuse. Attractive and natural green patina. The name "CEΦAH" is of Aramaic origin, derived from the Jewish/Aramaic word Kepha (כֶּפֶא), meaning "rock." It corresponds to Cephas, the original Semitic name of Saint Peter in the New Testament. Its presence on a Byzantine bread stamp reflects the multicultural and multilingual environment of the Eastern Roman Empire, where Semitic names were often rendered in Greek script. It may refer either to a person named Cephas or to a religious invocation linked to Saint Peter.
