II, 4. Almost certainly the finest known example of this well-preserved and extremely rare type of coin, and definitely superior to the only other specimen offered in recent years. The Crusade never had one designated long term leader from the start, it had a council of nobles which guided it; one of the most important leaders was Bohemond of Taranto, 'the eldest son of the legendary Norman Robert Guiscard ', one of the leaders of the first crusade and the founder of the long-living Principality of Antiochia. Bohemond's coinage is extremely rare today, and highly sought after by numismatic collectors specialising in the Crusade period and seeking to broaden their collection with exquisite rare coins most of which are in fantastic condition. The coin variations are based on the official bullae which Bohemond used as Prince of Taranto in 1090. Starting price: 1'200 GBP |

From the Tareq Hani collection Qyrus is the arab name for the city of Cyrrhus which was founded about 300 BC by the Seleucids. The city acquired some importance when it was captured by the roman general Gnaeus Pompeius Magnus (64 BC) and subsequently was developed into a military base during the wars between Romans and Parthians. After the Persians occupied the city, Cyrrhus came under Byzantine rule as Hagiopolis ('holy city'), capital of the province Kyrrestike. Cyrrhus was the centre of the veneration of the Christian martyrs Cosmas and Damian. During the years after the decisive battle of Yarmuk in AD 636 the Arabs conquered Syria. The Arab general Abū `Ubayda b. al-Garra accepted the capitulation of Cyrrhus and signed a peace treaty with its people. The rarity of the 'Standing Caliph' coins minted in Qyrus results from the the brief activity of the mint, which was probably connected to Abd al-Malik's decision to station considerable numbers of troops in the region for a short period of time after AH 74 (AD 693/4) in an attempt to secure the border to the Byzantine Empire.
